Location.

Franklinton Christian College is located in Franklinton, Franklin County, N. C., on the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, twenty-seven miles north from Raleigh.

The school buildings are on high ground, in a beautiful grove of oak trees which renders the situation healthful and attractive. The campus is among the most beautiful places in Franklinton.

History.

The College was opened as a common school in 1878, and was placed in charge of H. E. Long. The interest taken by the colored people in the new movement, for their education, was so great that it soon became necessary to employ other teachers to assist H. E. Long in the work. In 1880 Rev George Young of Carlisle, New York, was appointed Principal of the school. During that year the present College-building was erected and the school formally opened in the new building under the name, The Franklinton Literary and Theological Institute. In 1886 the Institute was placed under the care of the American Christian Convention and a Board of Control was elected to take supervision of its interest and to direct its work. In 1891 a charter was obtained from the State of North Carolina, and the name of the Institute was changed to Franklinton Christian College. The history of the College has been one of progress. It is the aim to assist the students to the acquirement of high moral and intellectual attainments, and the young men and women who have graduated from the College rank well among the students of their race in North Carolina and Virginia. There are teachers in public schools, principals of schools of higher grade, ministers of the Gospel, editors and managers of business interest, who are giving testimony by the excellent work they are doing, to the literary and moral character of the Institution in which they received their education. While the College has a commendable history of the past, its future is full of cheering promise; its courses of study have been revised and made more comprehensive ; more departments of work are established as the growing interest of the school demand, and it is the aim of the Board of Control and the Faculty to keep the College abreast with any institution of like grade in the South, for the education of colored people.

Courses of Instruction.

Scientific, Preparatory Scientific and Teachers' Course. These are arranged in view of qualifying the student thoroughly for practical and prosperous life. The scientific course is for those who, after completing the Scientific Preparatory course, may wish to pursue a course of studies further. This advanced course includes Higher Mathematics, Science, and studies in the Classical Language. The course comprises three years solid work, and when completed in a satisfactory manner, the student is well qualified to fill honorably the position of teacher in schools of high grade, or to engage in business with good prospect of success.

Tuition.

Each student is required to pay one dollar and fifty cents in advance for the term. Monthly tuition free.

Boarding.

Boarding in clubs has been made practical at Franklinton College. The young women buy their provisions and do their own work under the supervision of a competent matron.

The young men buy their provisions, by the direction of the Secretary, and hire a cook to prepare their meals. This plan of club boarding saves the student several dollars a month in the expense of attending the college, and it has worked quite satisfactory.

By economical management the cost of board, fuel and washing for young men has been reduced to five dollars a month.

For young women, board and fuel, four dollars and fifty cts.

Where students prefer to pay regular rates and have board furnished, special arrangements are made for their benefit at the rate of six dollars a month.

All bills for board must be paid in advance, on the 13th day of each month.

Domestic Science.

In this department the young women receive daily instruction in cooking and dining room work, laundry work each week; in mending garments; in plain sewing; in house decoration, and in such other detail work as makes up good house-keeping.

The department is superintended by a competent matron. No young woman of the College can afford to lose the valuable instruction and discipline that are given here.

Music.

Instruction is given in Vocal music free. Lessons in Instrumental music are given at $12\frac{1}{2}$ cts. for each lesson. Pupils in instrumental music have free use of the instrument for practice.

Printing.

Applicants for this trade must pass the examination in the second year, Preparatory course.

Instruction and practice are given in Press work, including making ready and running small job press; learning the cases, sizes and faces of type; proper position for holding composing stick; setting type, justifying and emptying stick; making up forms, care of type, correcting proofs, check, receipt and order books binding.

The application of these principles is given in the varied work of the printing office, as setting and printing notes, bill heads and tablet binding.

Bible

This course is designed for young and women who wish to prepare for the ministry or engage in mission work. The Bible is the principal text book used, and it is the purpose of the instructor to assist the members of the class to clear and comprehensive knowledge of its teachings. The Bible is studied in its history and literature, and as containing the fullest revelation of His will, that God made to man. Its doctrines are studied in the light of its own interpretation – comparing text with text.

Free use is made of maps and charts of Life of the Apostles.

The history of the Christian Church in the first centuries is included in the studies of this course. The student of the Bible who intends to become a public teacher in spiritual things, should search the scriptures so intelligently and faithfully that his soul will be permeated with its truths and he become thoroughly prepared to present spiritual truth with convicting power to the minds and hearts of others.

Watsonian

Is a literary society which holds its meeting on Friday evening. At these meetings, full programs are presented which consists of music, select readings, essays, the study of authors and their works, discussions of current topics and the study of Parliamentary practice.

Library

Among the bound volumes are histories, biographies and valuable reference works. There are also many books on Literature, Science, and Theology. Among the unbound volumes the popular and standard magazines of the day have place.

The library is open to students at stated times, and they have use of the books free of charge, except for damage done them while in their possession.

Social Culture

The students are permitted to meet in the the chapel at suitable times for social culture and enjoyment. Topics of common interest are presented on these occasions to direct and enliven conversation; songs and amusements are participated in freely, and all enjoy the hour given to social improvement, under the direct care of members of the faculty.

Admission.

Every applicant for admission to the College must present satisfactory evidence of good moral character, and if previously connected with any other College or Academy, as a student, may be required to present a certificate of honorable dismissal therefrom.

Requirements.

All students should come prepared to supply themselves with the necessary text books.

Students will be required to furnish their own towels, lamp and broom, also each student must bring a quilt or blanket.

Young men are required to do one hour's work each day in keeping buildings and grounds in order—cutting wood, making and keeping fires in the buildings. The young women work one hour in domestics

On arriving at the College, students should report themselves at once to the secretary.

Rules. All students must attend the "weekly young people's prayer meetings" of the school, and some regular church services every Sunday. Visiting is not allowed unless granted by the proper school officers.

Expenses. All bills must be paid promptly the first of each month.

Money Parents or Guardians are advised to send all Sending, money for support of students by Post Office money order, to the secretary, Prof. J. A. Henderson, Christian College, Franklinton, N. C.

Students should wear uniform for sake of economy. The uniform color for students is navy blue. Each student is required to wear the uniform dress every day and Sundays also. Young women must have a navy blue dress for general wear and one for Sundays. Parents are thus saved extra expense and the student learns not to be extravagant in dress.

Simple white lawn dress must be worn by all of the girls at commencement exercises. Gaudy ribbons and expensive dress will not be allowed.

RULES OF CONDUCT.

The rules of the College are plain, and only such as self-respecting young people would choose for themselves. It is presumed that every one who is received into the College as a student knows the principles of propriety and decorum, and will comply cheerfully with established regulations.

1. Students must be present each day at the opening of school.
2. Students must be diligent in study during the working hours of the day and evening.
3. Students must neither enter a class nor leave one without permission from the President.
4. Students must neither trespass on the premises of others nor injure the property of the College.
5. Boarding students must not leave the College grounds without permission from the President.

6. Students must neither bring upon the premises of the College nor use intoxicating drinks. They must not use tobacco in the buildings of the College.

7. Students must neither use nor keep fire-arms, or any other dangerous weapon.

8. Students must not play games for reward or prize, and they must abstain from whatever is inconsistent with good order, good taste, and good morals.
